PDF version of user manual References Category:AutoCADThe present invention relates to a new and distinct cultivar of Mandevilla plant botanically known as Mandevilla hybrida and hereinafter referred to by the cultivar name 'Balsoomaju'. The new cultivar originated in a controlled breeding program in Elburn, Ill. during August 2005. The objective of the breeding program was the development of Mandevilla cultivars that are freely flowering with a large, rounded-oval-shaped flower coloration and a well-branched, compact growth habit. The new Mandevilla cultivar is the result of cross-pollination. The female (seed) parent of the new cultivar is the proprietary Mandevilla hybrida breeding selection coded Balsora™ LAWS1, not patented, characterized by its light to medium green-colored foliage, light to medium pink-colored flowers, and moderately vigorous, compact, mounded-trailing growth habit. The male (pollen) parent of the new cultivar is the proprietary Mandevilla hybrida breeding selection coded Balsora™ LAWS7, not patented, characterized by its dark green-colored foliage, light to medium pink-colored flowers, and vigorous, upright-mounded growth habit. The new cultivar was discovered and selected as a single flowering plant within the progeny of the above stated cross-pollination during April 2007 in a controlled environment in Elburn, Ill. Asexual reproduction of the new cultivar by terminal stem cuttings since April 2007 in West Chicago, Ill. has demonstrated that the new cultivar reproduces true to type with all characteristics, as herein described, firmly fixed and retained through successive generations of such asexual propagation. Two days after Britain voted to leave the European Union in a referendum with less than 52 percent of the vote, Nigel Farage, the former leader of the UK Independence Party, declared victory for "Leave." "We've won the argument. I am totally confident that the British people have voted with us," Farage said on June 20 in Brussels. "Leave" gained more than 43 percent of the vote, according to the official election count. a1d647c40b
