Google Maps Contact Extractor is a useful piece of software that enables you to retrieve valuable information, such as business names, addresses, opening hours, emails and phone numbers for example, from the popular domain maps.google.com. Structured and well-organized interface The program comes with a relatively clean UI that is split into 3 main sections, namely one where you can insert the details for your query and 2 display panels where you can preview the results and the log report for the search. It is necessary to mention that the search pane includes numerous options, so you can narrow down your query and retrieve information that is relevant for your project. More exactly, you can specify the web domain, language or the maximum number of contacts to extract on a certain radius. For the same purpose, you can also note down keywords or phrases and add multiple locations. As a side note, while you can also retrieve email addresses along with the other details, you should keep in mind that activating this function can significantly slow down the speed of the data extraction. Includes some basic database manipulation tools Once you obtain the contact list based on your search criteria, you save it in various formats including but not limited to HTML, PDF, XML, CSV or XLS. Then again, before you reach this stage, you should check out the various database management instruments available in the Tools menu. To be more precise, you can search for specific contacts and update the information, you can find and delete duplicates, add filters and select only the data that meets these prerequisites, so on and so forth. A quick tool for company information retrieval Google Maps Contact Extractor is a relatively fast and efficient utility that can help you retrieve valuable data you can use in your projects.
