first thing that you need to do after launching the application is to set a path on your computer to the RAW files. You can browse all sort of locations on your device and provide the application with the folder from which RAW files will be retrieved. The application comes in multiple languages that you can pick from. Convert RAW files into DNG

The next step is to set the output files directory, so you would know where to find the converted images. You'll have to be patient with the application, as it doesn't recognize all file formats, only CRW. Once you've picked the files, you can start converting them. The conversion process doesn't take long, but it also depends on the number of files that you've set for conversion. You have the option to change some settings inside the application. Adjust setting to meet your preferences Main settings inside the applications can be adjusted, you can include subfolders and block the application from overwriting of the nonprofit leadership stories that have been uncovered over the last six months. Up until a couple of years ago, Phyllis Shepherd was convinced that she would never retire. “My dad told me I had to go into the senior’s center because I’d be the only one there. He’d send me off to babysit.” Shepherd, 69, said that’s exactly what she did. For the last two years, Shepherd served as the director of the senior center at Zion Missionary Church on Wilshire Boulevard in Copley
